- Safety, Safety, Safety: Safety is our number one concern on our indoor wall. That is why it's listed first and three times. There are two kinds of safety, physical safety and emotional safety. Both are equally important. As a participant you are responsible to behave appropriately, to follow all rules/regulations, and to follow such instructions as they might be given.
- Challenge by Choice: This is probably the most important part of the FVC besides safety. (Actually it could be considered part of safety.) Challenge by choice means that each participant may select the level of challenge that he or she is willing to experience. For some people just putting on a harness is a challenge, for others, climbing to the top is a tremendous challenge. There will be some people who will not be challenged at all. As facilitators, not only do we need to respect each person's personal level of challenge, but also we need to convey this to the group (don't encourage participants to climb higher if they don't want to climb higher - use your logic powers!).
- Give 100%: Not much explanation needed. This means to have fun!
